Foreword

A^S you go tramping along through life, whether the road ahead be filled with bumps or whether it proves to be an endless stretch of sunshine and happiness, may this record of former days be your companion and a source of joy to you.

TO OUR advertisers, those merchants and business men of Burlington who have stood by us in spite of the so-called hard times and have helped to make possible the publishing of our annual, we dedicate this edition of the

D0E-WAH-JACK

May their faith in us be justified through the results achieved by the annual.

Class Prophecy

"A WEARY time, a weary time," was the thought of one group when they graduated from high school in the midst of the worst depression that 1933 could furnish. And another one in the weaty-five years according to the economists! Each person in that group was sure that he could not survive the present one; certainly he could not like it down and become a party to the second one. There was not one of those Burlington High School graduates of the class of '33, however, who did not stem the tide and make a name for himself, in his own way, between that eventful night and this years from that long ago. But it is the meeting was scheduled to be held in the Drake hotel. We shall have to say to Floyd Thompson, one a famous economist, and to his associates, Vernell Murray, Robert Pennington, and Paul Morrow, that their predictions have come those graduates of 1933 has been reduced to the state of hoboes. This meeting becomes an international meeting of hoboes instead of the refined remains of the state of

Class History

THE author has no intentions of writing now a volume that will be immortal. If it does live, credit that to the makers of the history, not to the historian. Nor did they—the makers—commit their acts with the intent of making history. It all came about as the result of one hundred and forty-six seventh graders passing to the eighth grade, and choosing Burlington High School as their center of learning.

The September day which started life anew for this group of girls and boys marked a milestone—a milestone because they must no longer be considered as mere children; a milestone because they must begin to fight a few of their own battles. They went at their tasks eagerly and joyfnlly.

During the first year most of us (for I was one of those eager-eyed freshmen) were pretty loyal to our chosen fountain of knowledge. We were too dazed to understand all that was taking place, anyway.

We went from one thing to another without knowing what the last was about. There were representatives to elect to the student council, class officers to choose, annual representatives to elect; and then there was a freshman party. As I remember, Mr. Holliugworth was the star of the party, with his curly red locks worn as near backward as possible, and his suit donned in like manner. Paul Morrow, our class president, ran him a close second.

Sophomores—pretentious iu style, according to Mr. Webster; so that characterized us in our sophomore year? There were one hundred and twenty-five of us now. New interests must claim our attention. There was a school paper for which we must do some work. Athletics were loaming large on our horizon. We excelled there, too, being the first sophomore class ever to win the cnp which is given to the class achieving the highest number of points in athletics. Nor was it the least of our jobs to protect ourselves from the tauuts of the upper classmen.

With one hundred and fifteen boys and girls a bit more settled, another year was started; a responsible year, for it must add greatly to our knowledge, assure the success of a junior-senior bauquet, and otherwise aid us in establishing our reputation as a class. It was the longest year, because our last and supreme year could not come soon enough.

Supreme year is scarcely a good name for this year. It seems, now we have "arrived," that it has been too short and its close is ending too many things for us. Depression has characterized this year, and our minds have heen intent upon what our future state will be. Even then, we must consider our achievements.

Ours was the responsibility of reëstablishing the DOE-WAH-JACK. The manner in which we have done this, we leave you to judge. We have even made a monetary contribution to the one beanty spot of our school grounds. Again, we have been foremost in athletics by helping to bring about inter-scholastic basketball for girls.

In summarizing our achievements, I find that we have won the class athletic cup twice; we have played an unusually large part in scholastic publications; eight members of our class have been initiated into the National Honor Society; the boys have been outstanding in athletic ability.

This is a history of the Burlington High School class of 1933.

"The moving finger writes; and, having writ, Moves ou; nor all your piety nor wit Shall lure it back, to cancel half a line; Nor all your tears wash out a word of it."

ILA HANDSELL,

Last Will and Testament

NORTH CAROLINA, ALAMANCE COUNTY CITY OF BURLINGTON MAY 4, 1933.

WE, the Senior Class of the Burlington High School of the aforesaid state and county, being of sound W mind and body, realizing that an end must come to all good things, and having in our charge certain properties and responsibilities, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament.

ARTICLE I

To Mr. Roland, our revered superintendent, we leave the intention and geographical knowledge of the Senior Class, in order that he may never lack a responsive andience when he chooses to discuss geography. We also leave to him the destiny of our school, knowling that it will be safe in his hands.

ARTICLE II

To our principal, Mr. Buckner, we leave the privilege of working with another Scolor Class like onrs.

ARTICLE III

To Mr. Leonard, we will all money, which is not accounted for, in the Senior Class treasury, to help in the construction of his "Denuty spots." We grant him the right to give any money that he might have left from his exploits in "beauty spots" to Mr. Reid who can use it to help take care of his breakage expenses. This should insure Mr. Galviel's glasses and Miss Mansfield's too against further breakage. It might help to take care of certain expenses relating to car repair too.

ARTICLE IV

To the student body, we would merely call attention to the way we are respected by our esteemed faculty, and, in willing this respect to them, we suggest that they might approach our goal by conducting themselves as we have.

ARTICLE V

To the incoming senior class, we leave the privilege of petitioning Mr. Buckner for senior privileges, assuming that they will end just where we have ended.

ARTICLE VI

To the junior class to be, we will the responsibility of carrying out all traditions, even though they involve finances.

ARTICLE VII

To next year's sophomore class we leave a pamphlet entitled "How to be Wise Though Sophomores." We would suggest that they study this unceasingly.

ARTICLE VIII

To the fresh, new freshnan class, who have lived a life waiting for next year to come, we will the privilege of using their own judgment when any matter comes up involving a sophomore.

ARTICLE IX

Certain individuals and persons do bequeath as follows: Hugh Hayes, his ability as a pugilist, even when tangerines in unsound condition are involved to Walter Wilson,

Walter Wilson. Virginia Fancette, her supply of Christmas chocedates to Ray Paschal to distribute as he may see fit. Herman Knott's ability to almost make the Honor Society to Clara Bond Anderson with the hope that she may achieve that goal. Curl Moser, his oratorical ability to Jack Lamberth. Frances Brown, her soprano voice to Mr. Reid to help him when he is pitching songs in chapel. Louise Horne, her success at contring on class, at hunch, and at all other times to Julia Lloyd. Louise's Ford might help matters here, too. Wilson King's "way with the girls" to Ben Biown. Martin Horner's executive ability to Bill Whitley to help him in planning for and taking care of any situation that might arise.

situation

mathin former sectoring about 50 bill wanted to here and in paramagers and onlying the data of the sector of any nation that might arise. Clyde Hargrove, his title as "best athlete" to Henry Glosson. Clyde Trickle wills, his good books to Marshall Durham in order that one of the Durham brothers might

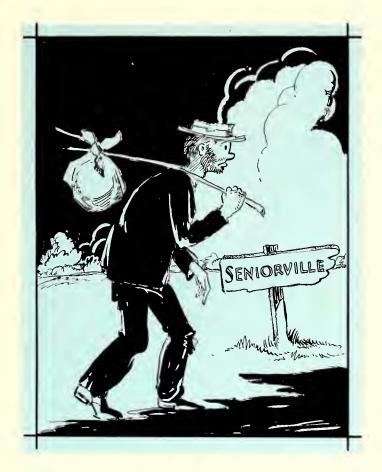

To Miss Kernolle, Alma Cade wills her "shoot," hoping that it will help Miss Kernolle when she has exhausted her supply of epitaphs on her fourth period class.

ARTICLE X

In testimony whereof, we hereby appoint Mr. C. E. Buckner as sole executor, with instructions that is to carry one faithfully the terms of the foregoing instrument. Witnessed on this 4th day of May.

Tramp's Guide

Miss Agnes Mansfield delights in teaching us French verbs, And all interest in life among her students thus curbs. Past, present, and future—the conditional as well, These soon will drive us to—a padded cell!

The other day we heard Miss Prue Choate say, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away." Now, we've heard rumors of a little doctor cute, And that's why Miss Choate is not fond of fruit.

Technocracy is a problem which runs 'round Sara Neese's head, For upon this timely subject she has read—and read—and read.

Benjamin Brown, Jr., with eyes of bright blue, His problem: "how to all the ladies to remain true." We're told, o'er this problem he spends many a sleepless night, And his laboring thoughts have early turned his hair to white.

The same troubles, 'tis said, bother Bill Mitchell too. If you were so bothered, just what would you do? Any of your suggestions would be much appreciated, And for his eternal gratitude you would be slated.

Could you ever make Earl Patterson stand still? We'll give you a lollypop if you will.

Mr. John Reynolds with his bright, curly locks While in Burlington High School has received few knocks. 'Tis mostly roses that are flung at his head, For his blond beauty has stricken his scholars, 'tis said.

"Itehy" Goodes and "Little Jack Horner"— Why can't both pests be enclosed in a corner ? They're nuisances both, and yet—oh, well— When it's time to cheer, those boys can yell !

Once there was a history student, Dickie Coble was his name. On Miss Kernodle's history class, he soon rose to heights of fame. There is a man of great renown, To name him modesty forbids; He once practiced law in the town, Now he lays down the law to kids.

Now Gabriel is really quite bright; In athletics he's way out of sight; He can hang by his knees

From a flying trapeze— Can it be that friend Darwin was right?

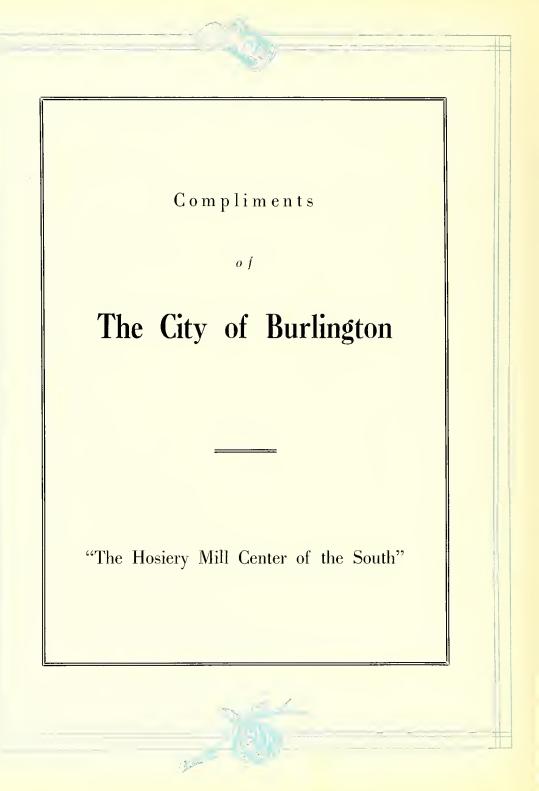

Here's to the senior who left us To go to the Land of the Sky— Reba Hinsdale, that gay little miss. Our loss is your gain, Asheville Hi!

Our friends John Heritage and Tuttle Brown, If they continue to hang around Will be right here parked When Noah opens another ark!

Now Alma Cade takes the banner For banging away on the piano!

'Cording to our "party line" The Sub-Deb Club is having a time.

Now Elizabeth Gant is quite elever; Originating—she is forever, But when it comes to quoting a book, Somebody is likely to say she's mistook.

Epitaphs of Other Ages

Here lies the body of Howell Gabreel Who died from slipping on a banana peel.

The remains of Ralph Goins are buried below. Praise God from whom all blessings flow.

Interred here are the bones of Marion Traynham. Peace on carth; good will in—hereafter.

Here lies the body of the jumper Lynn Durham. He has reached his goal at last.

Bill Whitley they say was a rapid fire thinker; From o'er taxing of the brain, he lies now a mere clinker.

Here lies the body of Bob Pennington. He "slew" others with his popularity. Turn about is fair play.

The bones of the sewer Alline Murphy are buried here. As ye sew, so shall ye reap.

O, is it meet and is it right That one so brilliant should pass out of sight? It is meet, and it is right; Here lie the bones of Yale Goodes, the bright.

Buried here is Richard Gibbs, the business manager. He died from putting himself into danger. All that glitters is not gold.

Ah, me and is she buried here Laura Teer who was once so fair? Then be it said— Beauty is now more than skin deep.

Here lies the frame of Charlotte Love; There wasn't room helow, so they buried her above.

Just Saunterin' Along

I. Hester running 'cause she's just heard the 8:30 bell. . . . Martin Horner wondering aloud how in this world he's going to keep his girls out of each other's bair. , . . Earl Patterson doing his best to inspire pep, school spirit, etc., into those dumb freshies..., Ralph Goins imposin' his "poisinality" on everybody.... Alma Roney making a good job of being best-all-round. . . . Those four debaters running everybody verts, including themselves. . . How anyhody can be so beautiful and not dumb, is a wonder to me; fr'instance, look at that little Ruth Holt Anderson. . . . Mr. Davis standing by the "Beauty Spot." . . . Agnes, Hel' and Mildred just saunterin'. . . Eugene Goodes always has an opinion which on all occasions is most decidedly expressed. . . Young Marion Traynham is, after all, a cute girl. . . . Carolyn Patterson is just a chip off the old block. . . Dot May would make somebody a mighty good advertisement of pep, vim, and vigor. . . . Scotty Andrews is a swell doctor's assistant. . . . Mrs. Graham is one of the best sports one runs into 'round this good ole school; she actually treats you as if you maybe had a little sense. . . Dickie Cohle does admire white shoes. So does Yale Goodes. ... I wonder if Lynn Durbam was right when, after the marriage of a very dear friend, I heard him murmur on English class:

"I hold it true, whate'er hefall;

I feel it when 1 suffer most—

'Tis better to have loved and lost

Than never to have loved at all." . . ,

I wonder if Miss Young still sings that song about apples on the lilac tree.... On the third floor the inspiring tune of the Marseilles rings out during the fifth period.... The bell rings—Lucy, Sary, etc., run for a scat in Tut's Ford.... A number of poor souls mourning their fates because of the awful sixth period....

The Congressman's sister was accustomed to keep an eye on him while at home. On this occasion she called him up at Washington by long distance.

joKes

"What have you been doing?" she demanded.

"What do you mean?"

"Don't try to fool me, I read the papers yesterday. They said the Speaker didn't recognize you."

William Paschal: Gosh, you're dumb. You don't know nothin' about the country. I bet you don't even know how to tell a horse's age.

Virginia Faucette: Well, how?

William Paschal: By the teeth, of course.

Virginia Faucette: Aw, who wants to go around biting horses,

Doctor: Man, you're looking bad. Did you take the powder I gave you-just enough to cover a dime.

Herman Knott: Yes I did, doc. Only I didn't have a dime, so I used ten pennies instead.

We've heard that the following question was given on a test by a teacher the other day: "Did you ever see a big-sized, small, white, black bird sitting on a wooden stone on a cold, moonlit summer day, eating a yellow blackberry?"

And they wonder why the seniors are failing!

Our advice to the faculty: "Never say die-do it."

Jack Leath: Have you got any mail for me? Postmaster: What's your name? Jack Leath: Oh, you'll find it on the envelope.

Mr. Reid: Oxygen is essential for the subsistence of all life, and was not discovered until 1774.

Petie Neese: Mr. Reid, how did people live before then?

Edwin Brannock: Why does the whistle blow for a fire? Kenneth Faucette: It doesn't blow for the fire; it blows for the water. They've got the fire.

Laura Teer: My boy friend gave me a guina pig for my birthday. Elizabeth Gant: Just like him! Laura Teer: What! have you seen it?

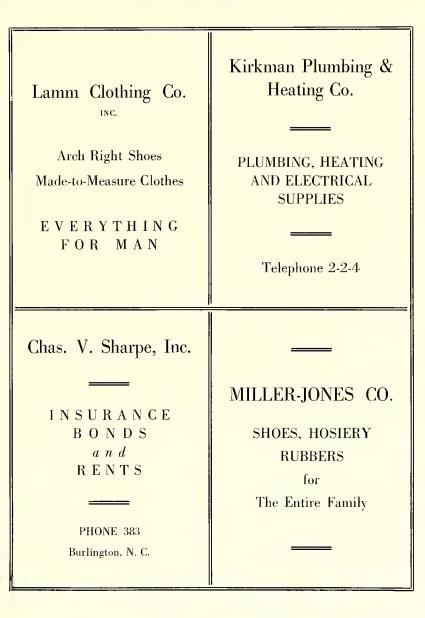

Earl Patterson: My ancestors were all people of brains. Fred Allen: Too bad, son, you were disinherited.

POEM

You thought that This was a poem Just because every Line begins with A capital letter? Well, it isn't!

Dickie Coble was once asked by his friends what he thought of Rome when he was abroad. Whereupon he condescended to remark: "Well, Rome is a fair-sized town, but I couldn't help but think when I was there that she had seen her best days."

Mr. Buckner was conducting a faculty meeting. "Now, people," he said, "let's get our heads together and build this concrete wall out here."

We believe it was a freshman who turned in this essay on "The Mule": "The mewl is a hardier bird than the guse or turkie. It has two legs to walk with. two more to kick with and wears its wings on the side of its head. It is stubbornly backward about going forward."

Bill Whitley: What would your idea of rigid economy he?

Gene Pryor: Any dead Scotchman.

Political Speaker: I'm pleased to see such a dense crowd here tonight. Voice: Don't be too pleased. We ain't all dense.

"Are you Mrs. Kernodle?"

"Miss Kernodle, if you please."

"O, sorry-my fault!"

"Sir, you flatter yourself."

The wife and daughter of Colonel Berry, camp commander, came to the gate after taps and demanded admission. The sentry objected.

"But, my dear man, you don't understand," expostulated the older woman. We are the Berrys.

"I don't care if you are the cat's whiskers," retorted the sentry. "You can't get in at this hour."

Farmer Corntassel had just retired and moved to town. In the morning, after spending the first night in the new home, his wife said: "Well, Paw, h'aint it about time you was gettin' up to build the fire?"

"No, siree," replied the old gent. "I'll call the fire department. We might as well get used to these city conveniences right now."

Alma Rony: But when you went to him and asked for the money for the ad, weren't you nervous and excited?

Charlotte Love: No, I was calm and collected.

BUILDERS DREAMS

VISIONS created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of inagination into the finished fabric is equally important.

It has been the privilege of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY to interpret the ideas of the Staff and create in material form their vision.

Such able coöperation is one of the "visions" which precede the building of a successful business, and is a part of the working policy of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY.

You, too, may be proud of your annual.
